Makeover Toolkit

Rewiring Your Thinking for Growth,
Wealth, and Financial Freedom

By Aces Smith | MonetumThrive.co

A PRACTICAL INTRODUCTION TO THE 7-STAGE WEALTH MINDSET FRAMEWORK

B E F O R E W E B E G I N

Why Are Some People Wealthy and Others Are Not?

Before you read another self-help tip or financial strategy, sit with these questions for a moment.

Why does one person start with nothing and build a life of freedom — while another, equally intelligent and hardworking, stays stuck year after year?

Why does one person spot opportunity everywhere — while another, standing in the same room, sees only risk?

Why does one person receive money, grow it, and attract more — while another earns well but always ends up broke?

> "The difference is not intelligence. It is not luck. It is not connections or family background. The difference is what is happening inside — in the mind."
> — Aces Smith

The person who builds wealth and the person who stays broke are often separated by one thing: the invisible programming running their daily decisions.

That programming is called a mindset. And here is what most people never realise — you have one. It is already operating. The question is whether it is working for you or against you.

This toolkit exists to help you find out. And then begin to change it.

H O W T O U S E T H I S T O O L K I T

Read slowly. Do not rush past the exercises. The value is not in the reading — it is in the honest reflection.

Every question is a mirror. Look into it without judgment. What you see clearly, you can begin to change.

Pause. Reflect. Write. Think honestly. The breakthrough is in the process, not the pace.

THE FRAMEWORK

The M.I.N.D.S.E.T Framework

Before results change, something deeper must change first — the way you think.

Most people try to improve their income, habits, or discipline without first understanding the structure behind their behaviour. That structure is mindset. And unless your mindset aligns with the life you want, you will struggle to sustain any change you make.

M	Mental Awareness Understand the beliefs silently controlling your results.
I	Identity Shift Become the person who is capable of wealth and growth.
N	Neuro Reprogramming Replace limiting beliefs with empowering mental habits.
D	Decision Power Make choices aligned with your future, not your past.
S	Strategic Learning Acquire the knowledge that creates real value and income.
E	Execution Habits Build daily systems that turn knowledge into results.
T	Transformation Lifestyle Live the change until success becomes who you are.

This toolkit takes you through the first two stages — M and I — in full depth, with exercises designed to surface beliefs you may never have examined.

The remaining five stages are introduced here so you can see the complete journey. Each one is covered in full inside the Mindset Makeover 12-week program.

FRAMEWORK ONE — FULL

M — Mental Awareness

Most people go through life reacting. They take life as it comes without ever asking: why do I think this way? Why do I keep getting these results? Why does change feel so hard?
The answer is almost always found not in behaviour — but in belief. Specifically, the beliefs that formed silently over years and are now operating automatically beneath your conscious awareness.

Where Your Beliefs Were Formed

Your beliefs about money, success, effort, and growth were not chosen. They were absorbed — through:

- Family conversations and what was normalised at home
- The environment you grew up in
- Past experiences that created emotional conclusions
- Repeated thoughts that eventually became convictions
- Things you accepted without ever questioning

Over time, those beliefs became automatic. They now quietly influence your confidence, your risk-taking, your discipline — and especially your financial behaviour.

You cannot change a pattern you cannot see. Awareness is not the finish line — it is the starting gun.

Consider this: if you grew up hearing that money was dangerous, scarce, or morally corrupt — you likely developed a subconscious habit of avoiding it, shrinking from financial opportunity, or spending it quickly to avoid the discomfort of holding it.

You would not choose this consciously. But it would still be running your life.

That is what this framework is designed to uncover.

EXERCISE 1 IDENTIFY YOUR MONEY BELIEFS

Take 5 minutes. Write down the very first thoughts that come to mind when you hear the word "money." Then go deeper: What did you grow up hearing about money? Do you believe wealth is truly available to someone like you? Do you feel fear or guilt when you think about earning more?

Write your answer:

EXERCISE 2 IDENTIFY LIMITING PATTERNS

Now observe your current behaviour honestly. Do you avoid opportunities because you feel unprepared? Do you delay starting things you know you should do? Do you make short-term decisions that cost you long-term? Do you struggle with consistency even when you are motivated?

Write your answer:

EXERCISE 3 NAME THE BELIEF BEHIND THE PATTERN

Foreach pattern you identified above, ask: "what would I have to believe about myself or about money for this pattern to keep repeating?" Write it down plainly. For example: "I must believe I don't deserve financial success" or "I must believe that trying and failing is worse than not trying at all."

Write your answer:

FROM THIS, YOU SHOULD HAVE DISCOVERED:

→ Why people stay stuck —not becauseof circumstance, but because of unseen belief

→ Why patterns repeat — the subconscious is loyal to what it learned, not what you want

→ Why awareness is the first step — you cannot rewrite a story you refuse to read

"This is not about judging yourself. It is about seeing clearly. The moment you can name the belief, it begins to lose its power over you."

F R A M E W O R K T W O — F U L L

I — Identity Shift

Awareness tells you what is running your life. Identity tells you who is running it.

Most people try to change their results without changing who they believe they are. They push harder, start new habits, follow new systems — but eventually slide back. Not because of weakness, but because their identity is quietly overruling every effort.

You do not rise beyond the identity you have accepted. Change the identity — and the behaviour adjusts automatically.

Your identity is the internal story you carry about who you are and what you are capable of. It answers questions like:

- Who am I when it comes to money?
- What kind of person am I — a builder or a survivor?
- What do I believe is genuinely possible for someone like me?
- Do I deserve financial freedom, or is that for other people?

Whether you realise it or not, you act in alignment with the answers you hold to these questions. If you see yourself internally as someone who struggles financially, you will unconsciously make decisions that confirm that belief — even when better options are available.

The Identity Trap

This is why many people:

- Start strong but stop halfway through
- Set goals but fail to follow through consistently
- Know exactly what to do but still do not do it

It is not a discipline problem. Their actions are fighting their identity. And identity almost always wins. Your action should align with your identity.

> "James Clear puts it clearly in Atomic Habits: every action is a vote for the type of person you believe yourself to be. The goal is not to achieve a result — it is to become the person for whom that result is natural."

The shift starts with a simple but powerful reframe. Instead of:

"I am trying to save money" — you say:

"I am someone who respects money and builds wealth."

"I am trying to be consistent" — you say:

"I am the kind of person who shows up even when I don't feel like it."

This is not positive thinking. It is identity architecture. You are redesigning the operating system, not just the app.

EXERCISE 1 AUDIT YOUR CURRENT IDENTITY

Complete this sentence honestly — write the first thing that comes to mind without editing it: "Right now, when it comes to money and success, I see myself as..." Write everything that surfaces. Do not filter.

Write your answer:

EXERCISE 2 DEFINE YOUR DESIRED IDENTITY

Now write forward. Not based on where you are —based on where you need to be. Complete this: "To build the life and financial reality I want, I need to become someone who..." Describe this person in detail. What do they believe? How do they handle money, opportunity, and setbacks?

Write your answer:

EXERCISE 3 ACT FROM THE NEW IDENTITY TODAY

Your identity is built through repetition of aligned actions. Write 3 simple behaviours that the person in Exercise 2 would do daily. Then do one of them today — before you finish reading this toolkit.

Write your answer:

FROM THIS, YOU SHOULD HAVE DISCOVERED:

→ Why identity controls behaviour — it is the operating system beneath every choice

→ Why willpower alone fails — it is fighting the identity, not changing it

→ Why results follow identity — when you become the person, the actions become automatic

> "You are not stuck because you lack ability. You are stuck because you are operating from an old identity. The moment that story changes — everything else begins to move."

THE JOURNEY AHEAD

The Remaining 5 Stages

You have now worked through the first two stages of the M.I.N.D.S.E.T framework

What you have discovered — the beliefs running your life, and the identity shaping your results — is the foundation.

But it is only the foundation. What follows is where the real transformation happens.

Here is a glimpse of what you are building toward:

N — Neuro Reprogramming

Awareness and identity are not enough on their own. For lasting change, the brain must be actively rewired — through repetition, visualisation, affirmation, and habit. This stage reveals exactly how limiting beliefs form at the neurological level, why they feel so real even when they are false, and the daily practices that systematically overwrite them with empowering ones.

D — Decision Power

Once your awareness and identity begin to shift, the next critical lever are your decisions. Most people make decisions reactively — driven by emotion, fear, or short-term comfort. Decision Power teaches you to choose from direction rather than impulse, building a personal decision framework that consistently moves you toward long-term financial growth.

S — Strategic learning

Not all knowledge produce change. Most people are consuming enormous amounts of information — and still stagnant. Identify the specific skills and knowledge that directly create value in the market, and how to build a focused learning system that actually moves your income and opportunities forward.

E — Execution Habits

Knowing what to do is not the problem sometimes. Doing it consistently - even when motivation disappears — is where most people fail. Execution Habits gives you the complete system for building wealth-aligned daily routines using habit stacking, environment design, and identity-based behaviour change. This is where your new mindset becomes your new reality.

T — Transformation Lifestyle

Your environment, relationships, language, and financial behaviours all align with the person you have become. This is not a destination — it is a way of living that compounds over time, building legacy, generational wealth, and lasting freedom.

THE COMPLETE MODEL

How Mindset Becomes Wealth

Here is the progression that most people miss and why skipping any stage leaves the whole system unstable.

1	Mindset Everything begins here. How you think determines what you believe is possible — and what you allow yourself to pursue.
2	Skill Development You learn skills that create real value.Not just information—practical, marketable ability that solves problems.
3	Value Creation You apply your skill to serve others.This is where money begins moving toward you —because you have earned it.
4	Income Value consistently produced becomes income. Not random—but the predictable result of usefulness and discipline.
5	Investment Instead of consuming everything you earn, you begin placing money where it multiplies — assets, not liabilities.
6	Wealth Growth Over time, your money begins to grow and multiply. This is where financial freedom begins to form.

Most people try to jump straight to income.
But without mindset, skill, and value — income becomes unstable.
And without investment, income never becomes wealth.

Where Are You in This Cycle?

Mark the stage that honestly describes where you are right now:

☐ Mindset — My thinking is still the primary obstacle

☐ Skill — I know my mindset is shifting, but I need to develop valuable ability

☐ Value Creation — I have skills but I am not yet consistently serving others with them

☐ Income — I am earning, but it is unstable or insufficient

☐ Investment — I am earning consistently but not yet growing it

☐ Wealth Building — I am investing, but I want to accelerate and build legacy

Be honest with your answer. There is no wrong stage to be at. There is only where you are — and the next step forward from there.
